DETAILED ACTION

Response to Arguments

1. Applicant's arguments filed 9/13/02 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

Applicant argues:

- (a) Grosser does not teach "a card insulator comprising: a single planar portion"

Examiner disagrees.

Response to argument (a), Applicant recites "the card insulator comprising: a single planar portion" and maybe comprising something more. Grosser clearly discloses a card insulator (100-figure 1) comprising: a single planar portion (101), which is a planar part of the card insulator positioned substantially perpendicular to a motherboard.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent, or on an international application by another who has fulfilled the requirements of paragraphs (1), (2), and (4) of section 371(c) of this title before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent.

3. Claims 1-4, and 8-10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Grosser et al. (U. S. Patent 6,118,667).

As to claims 1 and 8, Grosser discloses an information-processing system (200, column 3, line 31) as shown in figures 1-2 comprising:

a housing (201, column 3, line 34); and a card insulator (100, column 3, line 10), the card insulator comprising:

a single planar portion (101, column 3, line 11); and a curved handle portion (a side member having an edge (101b) having a curve top part portion) coupled to the single planar portion, the handle portion including a hooked element (top portion of the handle-see figure 1) for coupling the card insulator to the housing.

As to claim 2, Grosser discloses an information-processing system as shown in figure 2 wherein the housing (201) comprises first and second sides (201a, 201b, column 3, line 34) wherein the first side is opposite the second side.

As best understood to claims 3 and 9, Grosser discloses an information-processing system as shown in figure 2 further comprises a chassis (formed by two sides 201a, 201b), and the handle portion is coupled to the chassis via the hooked element.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

5. Claims 14-15, and 17-19 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Grosser et al. (U. S. Patent 6,118,667) in view of Haughton et al. (U. S. Patent 5,982,627).

Grosser discloses an information-processing system (200) as shown in figures 1-2 comprising:

- a housing (201) having first and second sides (201a, 201b-figure 2) wherein the first side is opposite the second side;

- a card insulator (100), the card insulator comprising:

- a single planar portion (101); and

- a curved handle portion (a side member having an edge 101b) having a curve (upper edge of the handle) coupled to the single planar portion, the handle portion including a hooked (top portion of the handle) element for coupling the card insulator to the first side of the housing;

- an end portion (side part having edge 101a) coupled to the planar portion (101); and

- a retainer guide (206; 207, column 3, lines 37, 40), the retainer guide coupled to the second side of the housing, the retainer guide comprising;

- at least one slot (figure 2) for receiving the card insulator (100, column 3, lines 37-55).

Grosser does not show a retainer lid hingedly coupled to the at least one slot and rotated from an open position to a closed position.

Haughton shows a retainer guide (180-figure 1A) having a retainer lid (144) hingedly coupled to the at least one slot (120) and rotated from open to closed positions (see figures 2-4).

It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to employ the retainer lid, as taught by Haughton, in the system of Grosser in order to ~~lock~~ lock or unlock a circuit board (or card insulator) when the circuit board (or card insulator) is inserted or removed from the system.

Conclusion

6. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
